THE HISTORY OF LSU SCHOOL OF MEDICINE IN SHREVEPORT

by
Danny S. Wood 1974 Thrill

The 100th medical school to be established in the United States was created on Monday, May 31, 1965, when Representative J. Bennett Johnston, Jr. of Caddo Parish steered a bill through the House of Representatives in Baton Rouge to found a new medical school in Shreveport. The bill passed, fifty-seven to forty-three, in the House, and by June 7 of the same year the Senate authorized it and Governor John J. McKeithen put the finishing touch on the bill with his signature. So the Louisiana State University School of Medicine in Shreveport was formally created in roughly a week — but its beginnings go back a little farther — ten years, in fact, before the bill ever hit the State Legislature. Since 1955, Dr. Joe E. Holoubek had headed a committee of the Shreveport Medical Society to get a medical school located in Shreveport.

So in June of 1965, after ten years of work, worry, but always optimism dreams were changed to realities and work was turned into more work and planning. A dean was needed for the school, and a dean was acquired — the "Dean of Louisiana medicine" — Dr. Edgar Hull. Dr. Hull, the associate dean of the LSU Medical Center, was named

CLASS OF 1975

So while you were happy, and shouting with glee
Mrs. Graves was in the WIC, hunting patients for you to see!
And with all of the choices in that horrible zoo,
Guess what she brings back upstairs just for you!
It's either an alcoholic who was terminally fat
Or a runny nose attached to some screaming brat!
Such is the poetry of good Dr. Brabham, M.D.
What follows was done by R. Stage, words of sheer beauty!

We took the E.R. elective, and learned to cut and sew
We saw a lot of skull films, what they showed we'll never know.
The orthopedic surgeons taught us how to cast broken bones
While the Urologic specialists made us experts on stones!
ENT and oral surgery taught us to stitch lips and faces,
And direct laryngoscopy to see in those difficult places!
The ophthalmologists taught us all about foreign bodies
And the general surgeons took the rest of the body!
It was a good elective from which we learned a lot and it'll help us in the future, when we become real docs!
And so ends this epic, it's gotta end right here
I just want to wish all of you-all lotsa luck next year!

So that was the carotid artery I ligated . . .

I didn't know that was where a pap smear came from.

This is just one of the 20 physiographs which each one of us were to have.

But Dr. Juberg, that would mean that my mother and my sister were the same person.

The makings of a great orthopedic surgeon.

Those suppositories do make you walk funny.

The classic "reverse fish story" syndrome.

You don't use Head and Shoulders do you?
