Freshmen

Looking for a way to beat inflation? Want to make friends and influence people? Tired of living in a comfortable home and eating regular meals? Solve all these problems and more by going to Ribco's School of Medicine. Use your bright eager mind for an exciting career in Medicine. You need no prior experience; we will teach you everything in just four short years. The first wonderful year you will learn more about the human body than in all your backseat adventures. See for yourself what happens when rats get diabetes, lungs clog with carbon, and alcohol gets into the cerebellum. Meet intelligent, concerned instructors willing to help students in all areas, including aid for the socially unacceptable. Never again be appalled by mental illness or sexual depravity! Yes! There is practical experience too. Learn to recognize the true size of the aorta or the characteristics of celibacy. You will soon be able to diagnose caffeine toxicity without fail, and see the effects that occur when a Ph.D. forgets his daily tranquilizers. For the more active individual we offer instruction in such skills as hissing in disdain and gunning for elusive grades. You can practice for the Olympics daily simply by crossing the Linwood drag strip. All this and more can be yours for one low fee. You will also get on the job instruction in languages from such foreign countries as India, New Orleans, Africa, Japan, Texas, and England. Learn the intricate skills involved in manually operated elevators, getting a free lunch without getting the lecture and never again will you worry about what to do with spare time. Yes, apply now and receive Ribco's moneyback guarantee and a free stethoscope that slices, dices, chops, and makes julienne fries. And that's not all. You will also get a medical dictionary with complete medical terminology to impress your friends and family. You will also receive these free gifts through Ribco's ever reliable bookstore:

1. Readers Digest Condensed Gross Anatomy (used)
 2. Biochemistry by Stryer (never opened)
 3. A Gunner's Guide of Weapons and Amunition (worn to pieces)
 4. What to say at your Medical School Interviews by One Who Knows
 5. A complete set of Radiology Filmstrips
 6. Notes for Wednesday morning classes
- So you don't forget, send your application before midnight tonight to Ribco's School of Medicine.

Sophomores

The second year of medical school is said to be a year of transition, but exactly to what is never quite revealed. Supposedly we transcend from regurgitative encyclopedias to diagnostic detectives through our training in Microbiology, Pathology, Pharmacology, and Medicine. Before this transitory period can begin we must be registered, labeled, and made accountable, for which at least one person was not quite ready. After this experience the real work begins, but alas, as always there is one person who clings to memories of the past summer.

Finally Spring arrives. For a few brief moments we may be able to celebrate the return of the sun, but soon the distant sound of handout after handout stacking upon each other is heard, and the classroom once again becomes a home. By now we are thinking about the beginning of our clinical experience, and the chance to make use of the vast amounts of information that we have so dilligently consumed over the past year. As always we will pursue this new challenge with our usual studious ferocity and . . .

Seniors

Four years have passed since the first humble morning in anatomy lab, four years since those first I. D. pictures captured youth and determination in our eyes. Now, our eyes tell the stories of teachers who have shaped our transition from students to physicians: professors and attendings, certainly — but then too the infant held in our arms as he breathed his first of life, the friends and families who insisted that the children within us revel in warm April mornings, and the elderly patient who taught us that healing holds more meaning than diagnosis and prescription. The lessons have been long and sometimes lonely, but the wisdom we have found is sweet. The art of healing is now ours, and we begin tomorrow as physicians.

Match Day

The institutionalized craps game known as Match Day took place on March 13, 1985, when participating seniors received their matches. A far cry from the ordinary concept of a job search, Match Day better resembles a huge birthday party where all the celebrants receive, one-by-one, gifts from a long-lost relative of unknown taste. The traditional post-Match party was held at Humpfrees with entertainment provided by the Kingpins.

Graduation

Yesterday's premedical grinds, tomorrow's heroic healers. They suffer from sleep deprivation, cafeteria-induced cholesterol levels, and a tendency to twitch uncontrollably, but they now all have names ending in "M. D."

Four years in Sing-Sing. The first two years — gross minutiae, porphyrias (or, how to diagnose a werewolf), cardiological vector analyses and other mathematical improbabilities. Myasthenia gravis making an appearance in virtually every course. The Clinical years — learning to sleep fully dressed in strange barren rooms and coping with patients' shocking ignorance of how bodies work. Feigning comprehension and self-confidence.

So now you're a Doctor.
